Collins Manufacturing and California's Prop 65 Labeling requirements

California Proposition 65 requires warning labels on products that may contain any of 800-plus chemicals or ingredients that the California Office of Environmental Health Hazard Assessment (OEHHA) lists as a carcinogen or a reproductive toxicant. These include wood dust, brass and a multitude of other everyday elements. Because there is always a chance that wood dust or some other of the hundreds of ingredients listed in Proposition 65 could potentially be on our furniture or packing materials, we must include Proposition 65 warnings on our products or risk large fines under this law in California. In addition, we are required to use the exact wording for this warning specified by California: "This product can expose you to chemicals including [name of California Prop 65 substance (eg Wood Dust)], which is known to the State of California to cause cancer or birth defects or other reproductive harm. For more information go to www.P65Warnings.ca.gov/furniture."

Ideally, we would have placed warnings only on our products being shipped to California. However, since we often stock products and don't know exactly where items will be shipping, we have no alternative except to place these warnings on all of our products, whether it ends up in California or not.

When used as intended and disposed of properly at the end of their working life, our products are safe for consumers and pose no greater or lesser risk to human health and the environment than any other consumer goods available that contain wood, polyurethane foam, vinyl fabric, plastics, steel, brass, aluminum, and other like materials.

Product family Specific labels and information about their placement are attached below.
